

COOPERATION TOWN

Household costs too high?

JOIN A FOOD CO-OP!

Cooperation Town is a new network of food co-ops.

A food co-op (or food club) is a buying group, which gives members access to quality groceries at affordable prices.

Co-ops source food and other household products in bulk and distribute them to their members at cost value - or even for free!

Co-ops are owned and organised by their members, who together decide what to buy and how to run the project.

They are non-profit collectives, set up to meet members' needs and are entirely controlled by the people who join them.
